OF GOVERNMENT

Vice president Joseph Boakai has cautioned Civil Society Organizations and individuals in the country that apart from being staunch critics of government's inadequacies, they should also team up with the government to provide social support that government is unable to provide alone.

He pointed out that "it is time to move beyond being the mere voice of the "down trodden" and rather to teach the voiceless to speak again and fish for themselves."

The Vice President made the statement Wednesday,
